

ESTIMATES COST OF FIRST YEAR OF WAR

Administration Places Figure at $10,735,807 Exclusive Loans

MUST RAISE HUGE SUM

How Congress Will Meet Enormous New Revenue Requirements Not Determined

FAVOR BOND ISSUES

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Estimating the cost of the war for the coming year at $10,735,807,000, exclusive of loans to the allies, the administration informed congress today that new resources totalling $7,000,000,000 must be raised.

It credit to the allies is continued at the present rate, the year's total of war expenditures will pass $10,000,000,000.

Method Not Determined
How congress will meet the enormous new revenue requirements remains to be determined, but there is a distinct sentiment in favor of offsetting most of the expenditures by bond issues.

Congressional leaders predicted tonight that not more than $2,000,000,000 would be raised by taxation and that the remainder might be met partially by bond sales and partly by issuance of treasury certificates of indebtedness.

Equipment for the national army, particularly artillery, will require the lion's share of appropriations. The war department alone expects to spend $7,864,240,000, or $5,319,000,000 more than has been appropriated thus far for its expenses during the year. The navy expects to spend $1,200,000,000, of which $288,000,000 remains to be appropriated. The shipping board, whose shipbuilding projects place it third on the list expects to spend $799,000,000, of which $350,000,000 remains to be appropriated.

To Begin Revision at Once
These figures cover the cost of the war from July 1 last to June 30 next. They do not include the money spent prior to the first of this month. Estimated receipts for the year were placed by Secretary McAdoo in transmitting the estimates to the house ways and means and senate finance committees at $1,333,500,000. This did not include revenues to be raised under the pending war tax bill, estimated by administration leaders in congress at $1,670,670,000. Revision of the bill will begin immediately to embody additional taxation as a result of the new estimates.

Tremendous as are the estimated expenses the appropriations actually sought are placed above these totals in order to provide a margin of safety. Thus the war department expects to spend $7,864,240,000 asks for $8,673,375,000 and the navy department estimating its expenditures at $1,200,000,000 asks for $1,374,178,300.

Total appropriations sought by all departments aggregated $11,551,132,993 or nearly $1,000,000,000 more than estimated expenditures. Should this sum be authorized with an additional $1,500,000,000 for the allies which would be necessary to continue loans totalling $5,000,000,000 a month the total amount of to be raised for this current fiscal year would be more than $15,000,000,000. It has been indicated that additional authorization for loans will not be requested of congress until the new session begins in December.

Method of Reaching Total
With estimated expenditures of $10,735,807,000 as the basis for computation the following deductions from estimated expenditures were made in reaching the $7,000,000,000 total of new revenues needed:

Income for the year under existing laws, $1,333,500,000.
Bonds authorized under the war finance bill of April 25, but not issued, $2,000,000,000.

Other bond issues previously authorized to reimburse the treasury for various items of expense, about $400,000,000.

Total $3,733,500,000.
The estimate of receipts during the next twelve months was computed as follows:

From customs duties $225,000,000.
From ordinary internal revenue sources $55,000,000.
From the income tax $350,000,000.
From miscellaneous taxes and other items $70,000,000.

Panama canal tolls $7,000,000, and deposits to retire national bank notes, an item which is represented by the same figure on the credit side of the ledger $30,000,000.

Makes No Suggestions
No suggestions as to methods for raising the money were made by Mr. McAdoo. Radical differences of opinion exist within the senate finance committee regarding the fu-

ARRANGE FOR PAPER FOR SMALL NEWSPAPERS

Eighty Thousand Tons of News Print Available Annually

Paper Committee of American Newspaper Publishers' Association Makes Contract with Northcliffe New Foundland Mill.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The Editor and Publisher will publish tomorrow an announcement by the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association that thru a contract made by the committee with Lord Northcliffe's New Foundland mill 80,000 tons of news print annually will be available without contract for small newspaper publishers in the United States and others who have been paying high prices for the print paper requirements.

The entire output of the Northcliffe mill will be available as well as the output of the Albert E. Reed mill near the Northcliffe plant which makes 100 tons of ground wood daily. There now is ready for shipment 15,000 tons of news print, 15,000 tons of ground wood pulp and 5,000 tons of sulphite, the latter for the use of conversion mills in this country. The paper committee says that bringing this extra newsprint into the market will "result in lower prices all around" as it will restore competition, creating a buyers' market, by placing at the disposal of publishers generally more paper than they will need. It is also expected to have an important bearing on 1918 contracts for the paper committee will sell the product of the Northcliffe mills while the present stringency exists.

Necessary ships have been engaged to transport the supply here and two cargoes have already been delivered on the Atlantic seaboard. This newsprint is in rolls and sheets. "This paper will be sold in carload lots at rates less than the prevailing market quotations," the paper committee says, "and publishers who take larger quantities will get it for less than $3 a hundred pounds f. o. b. seaboard. The exact price has not yet been set. It will be sold for cash in advance with order."

The committee emphasizes the importance on the American market of the extra ground wood and sulphite, stating that conversion mills have been paying exceedingly high rates for these commodities and have had to pass on the cost to the consumer.

The financing for this arrangement was made possible thru the generosity of a number of large publishers. The smaller publishers now may get their requirements by communication with A. G. McIntyre, special representative of the paper committee in this city.

MAY AGREE ON FOOD CONTROL BILL TODAY

Senate and House Conference Make Substantial Progress on Measure.

Washington, July 27.—Senate and house conferees on the food control bill made such substantial progress today that a complete agreement seemed probable by tomorrow.

The conferees virtually agreed to eliminate the congressional joint committee on war expenditures, opposed by President Wilson and to accept the senate amendment authorizing the president to fix the price of coal and coke and to take over mines.

There was also a virtual agreement on the senate amendment to regulate the making of contracts for the government by the defense council's advisers.

Sentiment regarding the liquor amendments seemed to be that congress should be satisfied to put the ban on whiskey, to authorize the commandeering of distilled spirits in bond so far as necessary for government purposes and to authorize the president to prohibit the making of beer and light wines if he chose.

What the decision would be between the senate provision for a food board of three and the house authorization for one food administrator remained uncertain.

SUBMIT PLAN FOR RATIONING NEUTRALS

WASHINGTON, July 27.—A plan for rationing the Northern European neutral countries was put before President Wilson today by the exports council. A general policy of supplying America first, the allies second and the neutrals last was announced by the president in his proclamation putting his expert control into operation but no specific policy has been adopted. At present no license is issued for shipment of goods to the northern neutrals. A large number of Scandinavian ships, loaded with foodstuffs, are awaiting permission to sail. The American government has no intention of attempting to stop all neutral trade with Germany but will put an end to re-shipment of American goods into enemy territory. It also will stop shipment from America of supplies intended to replace goods which go to Germany. This applies to cattle feeds.

PLEDGE SUPPORT TO WILSON

Arthur, Ill., July 27.—Members of the Eastern Illinois Country Publishers' association comprising editorial districts, at their annual mid-summer meeting here today adopted resolutions pledging their loyal support to President Wilson in his conduct of the war and expressing the belief that the United States will triumph on land and sea.

ASK INVESTIGATION OF E. ST. LOUIS RIOT

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 27.—Investigation of the East St. Louis race riot was asked in a resolution adopted today by the National Association of Teachers in Colored Schools meeting here "to determine whether the constitution and laws of the United States were violated and what legislation is needed to prevent like outrages in Illinois and other states."

QUESTIONS MUST GO TO EXEMPTION BOARDS

No General Class of Workmen Will Be Exempted

Provost Marshal's Office Deluged With Personal Inquiries and Pleas From Industrial Concerns To Exempt Expert Workmen.

Washington, July 27.—A deluge of personal inquiries and pleas from industrial concerns for exemption of their expert workers, drew from the provost marshal's office today a statement that questions must be addressed to local boards and that claims for industrial exemption must go later to the district boards.

To Exempt No General Class

No general class of workmen will be exempted, Provost Marshal General Crowder told the coal production committee which sought information whether miners would be left at their work. Appeals to the provost marshal's office from employers on behalf of their workmen can accomplish nothing, it was explained, as resolutions promulgated by President Wilson govern all exemptions. "The question of whether a man is more useful to his country in a peaceful pursuit, than in military service is a matter to be taken up with the district board," said an announcement "and for that board to determine in the light of the circumstances surrounding each individual case."

"Proceedure in case of claim for discharge on the ground of industry or agriculture is explicitly outlined in the regulations. Only the upper or district board has jurisdiction over an industrial or agricultural claim for discharge."

"Before a man has a standing before the district board he must first be certified to it by the local or lower board as physically qualified for service and must have had any discharge claim made before the lower board decided adversely to him."

"He has five days after he is certified to the upper board in which to file claim for discharge and five days more in which to file proof. All claims for exemption or discharge, except claims for discharge on industrial or agricultural grounds are decided by the local or lower board."

Should Write to Board

Most individual inquiries to the provost marshal's office come from men who are absent from their places of registration and have been summoned for examination. Such a man should apply in writing to the local board in the district where he is registered, and request an order directing him to appear for physical examination, and possibly exemption or discharge claim, before the board of the district in which he is now living. This request should designate definitely the board having jurisdiction over the district in which he is living; for example, "local exemption boards division No. 9, New York City."

LIGHTNING KILLS THREE GUARDSMEN

Bolt Strikes Camp Maxwell in St. Louis County—Two Others Seriously Hurt.

St. Louis, July 27.—Three members of the first regiment, Missouri National Guard, were killed and a dozen others were injured, some of them dangerously, by a bolt of lightning during a storm which swept Camp Maxwell, in St. Louis county, at 2 o'clock this morning.

The dead are: H. D. Davis, sergeant, Company L. Dwight L. Trump, private, Company F. Barron C. Carroll, private, Company E.

Among those seriously injured were Sergeant Jack Allen, of F. Company and Corporal Clarence Dunsford. They were revived by means of palmators and are thought to be practically out of danger. The other injured men were severely burned.

The soldiers were asleep in the guard tent at the main entrance to the camp when the storm broke. The tent collapsed and the injured and dead were carried to the hospital tent where efforts were made to revive them.

Many tents about the camp were set afire by lightning but the occupants escaped death. The work of rescue was hindered by numerous electric wires which were blown down. The fires were extinguished as quickly as possible and the damage is not thought to be heavy.

TO MOBILIZE TROOPS SUNDAY

Springfield, Ill., July 27.—The new Tenth Illinois Infantry, commanded by Col. O. P. Yeager of Danville, probably will be mobilized at Camp Lowden Sunday, Adjutant General Dickson stated today. Major Peter Wills of Danville was here today making arrangements for the regiment's coming.

RUSS CONTINUE TO RETIRE IN GALICIA

Teutons Move Forward Unimpeded South of The Dniester

PART OF LINE STIFFENS

Russians Now Offering More Stubborn Resistance North of Dniester River

REPULSE CROWN PRINCE

The Russian Retirement in Eastern Galicia continues. There has been a noticeable slackening in the Austro-German advance north of the Dniester, where the Russians now are offering more spirited resistance, but south of the river to the Carpathians the Teutonic forces are moving forward unimpeded. Around Tarnopol the Austro-Germans have met with stubborn resistance, but Prince Leopold's soldiers were able to enlarge recent gains on the eastern bank of the Sereth. Between Trembowla and Skeromocz, south of Tarnopol the Russians yielded the crossings of the Sereth and Gniza rivers on a front of about 8 miles according to Berlin.

Southeast of Tarnopol Petrograd reports, the Austro-German attacks were repulsed. The Russians have retired to new positions southeast of Trembowla, but whether they also surrendered the crossing of the Sereth there Petrograd does not say. Between Czortkova and the Dniester Russian cavalry has repelled Teutonic assaults and driven the attackers northwestward toward Monasterzyska.

South of the Dniester into the foothills of the Carpathians the Russians are retiring eastward. Kolomea, about 50 miles northwest of Czernowitz, capital of Bukowina, has been occupied by Bavarian and Austro-Hungarian troops. The town is an important railway junction and lies north of the Pruth. An official report from Austrians source says the Russians are evacuating the Suchitza valley northwest of Focsani has resulted in the abandonment of that valley as far as the upper course of the Putna by the Austro-Germans. The Rumanians have moved their line forward seven and one half miles, gaining all their objectives and occupying ten villages.

More than 400 additional prisoners and guns and war material were captured by the Rumanians.

Except inlanders and in Champagne there has been no infantry fighting on the western front. In Flanders the British took LaBasseville but surrendered it later before a German counter-attack. The German Crown Prince in attacks against heights southwest of Moronvilliers and east of Auberville, in Champagne was repulsed with heavy losses by the French.

The decision to continue the war until the aims of the allies have been attained is announced by the conference of powers held in Paris. It was decided also to withdraw the entente troops from ancient Greece, Thessaly and Epirus. This latter action will not affect the campaign in Macedonia and Albania, but will result in the turning over to the new Greek government the territory seized and made secure the rear of the entente armies fighting in the Balkans, while Greece still was a non-combatant.

SIX AUTOMOBILE OCCUPANTS INJURED

MADISON, Wis., July 27.—Six occupants of the automobile of C. E. Wright of Beloit were cut and bruised today when the brakes refused to work and the car being driven down the driveway of the University Grounds ran into a concrete guard wall. Mrs. E. A. Palmer, Holden, Ill., aged 80, was cut about the face and was taken to a hospital. H. H. Palmer, Hillsdale, Ill., was one of those less seriously hurt.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR HAS NARROW ESCAPE

AMSTERDAM, July 27.—Emperor Charles of Austria had a narrow escape last week while visiting the battle front in Galicia, says the Wiener Allgemeine Zeitung. While the emperor was taking luncheon at a castle near the battle line, Russian artillery shelled the dwelling. The emperor first refused to take cover and went on the balcony, but owing to the protestations of his staff, he was finally induced to leave.

WILL ISSUE COMMISSIONS.

Washington, July 27.—War department officials are preparing to issue commissions to successful candidates at the officers' training camps promptly on the closing of the first series of camps on August 15. Probably more than 20,000 men will receive their papers.

Their assignment to the regular army, National Guard or National army will follow immediately.

MASTER LISTS SENT OUT BY DICKSON

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 27.—Master lists of men massed under the selective draft law were sent out to all Illinois exemption boards by Adjutant General Dickson today. It was understood previously that the lists would go to the board members directly from Washington.

ORDER SPRINGFIELD STREET CARS TO BARN

Action Follows Shooting of Woman and Deputy

Shootings Come as Climax of Attacks on Street Cars in Various Parts of City—Bullet Which Strikes Woman One of Fusillade Intended for Car.

Springfield, Ill., July 27.—All cars of the Springfield Consolidated Railway company were ordered to the barns at ten o'clock tonight after a woman sitting on her porch was struck by a stray bullet and a deputy sheriff had been shot by a sympathizer with the strike of street car men.

The shootings came as the climax of attacks on street cars in various parts of the city.

Strikes Woman in Shoulder.
The woman who was shot was Mrs. Lee Freeman. The bullet struck her in the shoulder. Deputy Sheriff Walter Canfield, who with other deputies of Sheriff Wheeler's regular force attempted to disperse a crowd in the south part of the city was shot in the stomach. Neither Mrs. Freeman nor Canfield was seriously wounded. It was at first reported that a street car operative had been shot.

The bullet which struck Mrs. Freeman was one of a fusillade intended for a passing street car. Seven of the missiles lodged in the body of the car but hurt none of the passengers.

Swears in Deputies.
One hundred doctors, lawyers and business men were sworn in as special deputies by Sheriff J. A. Wheeler tonight to aid in putting down disturbances which he feared might develop as a result of the strike of street car men who are out demanding recognition of their union and higher wages.

The deputies were being held in readiness at the court house where a score of automobiles were provided in which to make hurry up calls.

They are armed with sawed-off shot guns.

Reports of minor disturbances were received by the sheriff shortly after dark. One street car conductor was knocked off his car, but managed to escape from his attackers.

A woman passenger became frightened and jumped while the car was in motion. She was badly bruised in the fall on the pavement.

Throw Stones at Cars.
Stones were thrown at cars in other parts of the city, altho no serious damage was done.

One hundred and seven men had signed membership cards tonight in the newly formed union of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees. Strikers declared new members were being secured rapidly enough to make certain victory for the Union men.

Armed guards were riding on cars tonight and an irregular schedule was being maintained on all lines.

A. D. Mackie, general manager of the Springfield Consolidated Railway company, still refused to treat with a committee of the new union tonight.

SENDS LETTER OF THANKS TO AMERICAN PUBLIC

BASE OF THE American Flotilla in British Waters, July 27.—By The Associated Press.—The captain of the liner recently torpedoed from which sixty passengers and ninety members of the crew were rescued by an American destroyer, today asked the Associated Press to convey to the American people a letter of thanks and heartfelt appreciation on behalf of himself, the passengers, and the crew for the gallant rescue by the Americans.

The commander and men of the American destroyer who refused a substantial purse from the grateful passengers with the statement that they were merely doing their duty, today also received a letter of thanks from the captain. The fact that the Americans were able to pick up all the persons from the ship without missing a single one, a record for the largest number rescued from any one ship by an American destroyer since the arrival here of the Flotilla.

INDICT TEXAS GOVERNOR ON CHARGE OF FELONY

Seven Counts Charge Misapplication of Public Funds

Governor Ferguson Answers Charges by Announcing Himself a Candidate for Governor of Texas for a Third Term—Indict Other Officials

Austin, Texas, July 27.—Governor Ferguson today was indicted by the Travis county grand jury on nine counts, seven charging misapplication of public funds, one diversion of public funds and one embezzlement.

Governor Ferguson late tonight answered the charges of felony by announcing himself as a candidate for governor of Texas for a third term.

Indict Secretary of State
C. J. Bartlett, secretary of state was indicted on six counts, charging misapplication of public funds. C. J. Stowe, state superintendent of buildings and grounds was indicted on one count, and C. O. Aus, commissioner of insurance and banking on four counts, charging misapplication of public funds.

Other indictments were returned but not made public.

Governor Ferguson has been the center of a bitter political fight during the last year, including two attempts to bring impeachment charges against him, one in connection with expenditures for the executive mansion and the affairs of the Temple (Texas) State Bank of which he formerly was president and the other as a sequel to a political controversy over educational matters.

Mentions Only Sum Involved
The indictment against the governor charging embezzlement contains only mention of the sum involved and the identifying date. The amount alleged is $5,600.

The charge of diverting a special fund refers to the fund provided by the legislature for the purchase of supplies for the executive mansion. It is charged that the government did "willfully borrow, withhold and divert from its purpose," this fund applying it to the purchase of "various goods, wares, and merchandise not authorized by law."

Of the seven charges of misapplication of funds, one refers to $101,256, collected by Governor O. B. Colquitt, Ferguson's predecessor—as an appropriation for one of the institutions.

The governor is alleged to have received this sum from Colquitt and the sum of $5,000 in one case and Bank.

Governor Ferguson gave bond in to have placed it in the Temple State $1,000 in each of the others. The bonds of Austin and Bartlett were placed at $1,000 in each case and were furnished. Stowe gave bond of $500.

Governor Ferguson attributed the indictments against him to "contemptible politics."

MANY QUESTIONS FOR EXEMPTION BOARD

CHICAGO, July 27.—Members of the soft coal operators' association left for Washington today in hopes of gaining federal intervention in Illinois coal prices which are being attacked by committees of the state council of defense. They expect to meet with C. M. Moderwell, member of the national committee on coal production and hope to get Secretary Lane a declaration supporting the reduced prices recently made effective by the Peabody committee.

It was also said that they might invite an investigation by the federal trade commission. The soft coal operators will make the plea that the jurisdiction of the state council does not extend beyond the state lines. The council has taken the position that the lower prices in Illinois have no relation to prices in other states and that if prices here were lowered, other states could do as they wished about getting similar results.

URGES GERMANS TO GIVE UP THEIR GOLD

AMSTERDAM, July 27.—The daily recurring public notices printed in conspicuous type in German newspapers entreating citizens to aid the fatherland by giving it their gold evidently is insufficient of productive results. The Weser Zeitung of Bremen publishes a renewed appeal complaining especially that the well-to-do public still fails to realize the situation and that all gold must be handed in.

The newspaper cites examples of millionaires of the German imperial and royal princely houses sacrificing their gold and jewelry and says competent authorities calculated that three to four hundred million gold coins are being obstinately hoarded in Germany while the value of gold ornaments is estimated at a billion marks.

The Weser Zeitung says the public often asks whether gold cannot be loaned instead of given to the German Imperial Bank. The answer is no, because the law demands gold as a cover for paper money and that it must be in bars or coin. The public is again urged to yield jewels of all kinds which realize good prices abroad and are most useful for credit purposes there.

MRS. BINGHAM DIES.

Louisville, Ky., July 27.—Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham, formerly Mrs. Henry M. Flagler, died here late today from an acute heart disturbance. Mrs. Bingham was married to Judge R. W. Bingham of Louisville last November.

CHICAGO SWITCHMEN TO STRIKE TODAY

Railroads Place Embargo on Livestock and Perishable Freight

ROADS APPEAL TO MAYOR

Arrange with Police for Meeting to Discuss Means of Preventing Violence

STATEMENTS CONFLICT

CHICAGO, July 27.—The nineteen Chicago railroads who have been threatened with a strike tomorrow morning of 2,500 switchmen belonging to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, tonight began sending out notices of an embargo on livestock and perishable freight to and thru Chicago. This announcement was made by Frank Hasler of the committee of railroad general managers.

For Duration of Strike.
Mr. Hasler said the embargo would be for the duration of the strike. The railroads appealed to Mayor Thompson, Sheriff Traeger and Chief of Police Schuetler for protection and arranged with police officials for a meeting to discuss means of preventing violence and protecting the railroads' properties. Chief Schuetler at once sent out orders that all furloughs be stopped temporarily.

George F. Hanover, chairman of the roads' conference committee, sent the following notices to the city officials:

Send Notice To Officials.
"The conference committee of managers of the roads are threatened by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen with a strike of the yardmen employed in their Chicago terminals if they don't make concessions which would establish the closed shop in favor of members of their organization and deprive the managements of the power to select yardmasters and their assistants."

"The railroads are also threatened with a strike of the members of the Switchmen's Union employed in their Chicago terminals if they do yield to the demands of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen because this would close the door of employment against many members of the switchmen's union. The conference committee has proposed mediation by the federal mediation and conciliation board, which has been declined by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen."

"A strike vote has been taken and Mr. Murdock, vice president of the Railroad Trainmen, has notified us that the members of his organization in the Chicago district will be withdrawn from service 6 a. m. Saturday July 28."

"This means that there will be a great deal of interruption to traffic in the Chicago switching district and the railroads will need protection to enable them to conduct their business."

Terms Statement Incorrect.
James Murdock, vice president of the Brotherhood denied that the switchmen were seeking a closed shop and characterized the reasons given out by the railroad managers as causing the strike as "unqualifiedly incorrect."

He said 98 percent of the switchmen had voted in favor of a strike because the railroads had refused to grant requests made by the brotherhood. The new rules sought would give preference to members of the brotherhood in employing yardmen, give preference to yardmen in promotions to yardmasters and prohibit the companies from reinstating men justly discharged in disregard of the rights of other loyal yard men, according to Mr. Murdock.

One thousand patrolmen were detailed to railroad strike duty and ordered to report at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

THE WIND SQUAD.

Vice President Marshall is not given to sayings which attract country wide attention but he struck a responsive chord recently when he said that it would be an excellent plan "to send the wind squad in congress to France with the aviators." Defenders of congress claim that a large number of very important measures almost without debate. That is true and congress is entitled to due credit on that account. But the good work that was done has been uselessly marred by dangerous delays with other important legislation. Much of the argument and many of the speeches thus far made have been mainly for the purpose of delay and with the other purpose of temporizing just to please a certain bickerer of constituents. Problems before congress are to deep—the need is too great—for such temporizing and the country is rapidly losing patience with the men in congress who are not big enough to see conditions in their true light and who waste time so valuable by obstructionist methods, by mere bickerings and strife.

WOMEN AS RAILROAD WORKERS.

Car repair men in the Big Four shops at Urbana have taken an unexpected and ungallant stand. They have declared that if women workers are introduced in the railroad yards to take places formerly held by men that they will strike. The men haven't given any formal statement in support of their position, so that neither the railroad nor the women have any idea why association with them would be so objectionable. The Big Four men had better give in on this proposition for as the war progresses, if we can judge by experiences in France and England, women will be driving street cars and automobiles, serving as porters, elevator operators and in dozens of other capacities wherein they would previously have been thought entirely out of place. The railroad workers simply haven't caught a view of conditions as they really are.

SQUANDERING AND SAVING HUMAN LIFE.

The German figures of seven million men killed since the beginning of the war cannot be taken as the sum total of loss of life. These figures do not include the thousands killed in the Armenian massacre or the other thousands dying from starvation.

vation. The contemplation of the awful war losses and savagery and the devastation which the great conflict has wrought is indeed a rebuke to civilization. Many of the methods of destruction resorted to outdo the days of barbarism.

Yet following in the wake of this awful deluge of blood there is the most remarkable system of surgery and sanitation that the world has ever seen. Men were never so ruthless in the destruction of life as now and men were never so efficient in alleviating suffering and in lessening the after-effects of the awfulness of war. It is a strange, strange contrast of conditions and affairs. The figures quoted are appalling but the world has not realized that in the days of the Tai-Ping rebellion in China statistics show that thirty million people lost their lives, the greater percent from disease and famine.

THE TRUTH FROM A CARTOONIST'S PENCIL.

It often remains for a good cartoonist to give the most forceful expression to a truth. Columns of protest have been written about the action of Secretary of War Baker in locating most of the army training camps in the south. But the arguments thus presented flat flat by comparison with McCutcheon's cartoon in the Tribune yesterday. The cartoonist presented two pictures, one of the troops as they sweltered at their tasks under a southern sun and the other gave a picture of the rigorous climate of northern France. The line above reads "Training American soldiers in southern camps for warfare in the colder regions of France." After a look at that cartoon one feels like saying "nuff said" and mailing a marked copy to the war department.

THE STATUS OF ALIENS.

The question of the part that aliens shall take in the draft army has caused a good deal of questioning and discussion, together with protests from various alien bodies. In a discussion of this "Problem of the alien" the St. Louis Globe-Democrat has the following:

"The protest of registration districts largely inhabited by aliens against the comparatively few eligible registrants being compelled to fill quotas based on the entire registration will probably result in some modification of the apportionment. But the protest has called attention to the larger question of the military responsibility of aliens. The position of the United States is unique among the nations, in the number of foreign-born residents. The last census showed 13,515,886 persons of foreign birth, constituting 14.7 per cent of the entire population. Many of these are naturalized citizens, but unfortunately, there are no statistics available on that point. The government now has in the registration lists information as to the number of alien males between the ages of 21 and 30, inclusive. It is common knowledge that there are hundreds of thousands and perhaps millions who have not taken the first step toward naturalization and all are classed as aliens until they receive final papers.

"All these people enjoy the protection of our laws and the opportunity to earn a livelihood. Many have amassed wealth and many have regularly sent their savings abroad. But they are free from most of the obligations citizens are under, except the payment of taxes. Heretofore, there has been little protest, although some invalid legislation against employing alien labor in private industry and some probably valid legislation against employing aliens in public work have been enacted. Our early immigrants generally became citizens at earliest opportunity. Many of them volunteered in our several wars. There were whole brigades of Germans and Irish in the Union army. But our recent immigrants have been either less eager for citizenship or the more stringent naturalization law has discouraged them. The country has proportionately more aliens than ever before and under existing law, they will be employed at unusually remunerative wages while our citizens are risking their lives in Europe. Some system should be devised for at least making citizens of the allied countries who are resident in the United States, bear their share of the military burden, regardless of precedents. The situation is unprecedented."

RIGOROUS TRAINING IS HELPFUL.

It is encouraging to fathers and mothers and other relatives of men in the army training camps to see them after a few weeks of work. The men almost invariably show improvement in their physical condition. That is true of a number of such young men from Jacksonville who have been in the training camps and then returned to their homes here for brief visits. In a number of instances, the young men after training are fat instead of lean and in other instances they have been "trimmed down" into a working condition which makes them much more physically fit not only for army work but for every day duties.

Many of the men in the officers' training camps in the regular army and in other branches of the service come from cities where they have lived more or less of the indoor life and have not taken the amount of exercise really desirable. In the training camps they get not only the exercise but the regular hours of sleep. The daily menu is not as appetizing as most of them would have on their home tables but it is nourishing in quality and the quantity is sufficient. The hardest part of the recruits comes in the first two or three weeks of training. After that they begin to like the rigorous routine and it is beneficial to them in many ways.

GASOLINE AS NEAR KING.

The Oil City Derrick has called attention that the place of cotton and corn as rulers in the world of industry is being rapidly taken by gasoline. The Derrick says: "Cotton has long been claimed by the industrial world as a king in its own right, because of its value and wide uses. The western people call their corn product the greatest and have asked that it should be crowned. But at the present time the oil producer may make like claim for one of the products from his oil wells, and name gasoline as the greatest of all claimants to being the most useful, and truly king in its varied benefits.

In its industrial uses it enters into every factory and workshop. It drives the wheels and transports by means of tractors the products of the establishments. On the farm it has become indispensable, doing the plowing, cultivating and harvesting. Again it carries the farm products to the market, and helps to transport them into suitable food for the table. Gasoline gives pleasure in driving the automobiles, or performs the drudgery of daily labor on trucks and drays. It propels yachts and motor boats, and drives the steamboat and the ferry. While it is an infant of only a few years, it is a healthy and vigorous one, and takes part in a joy ride or carries a burden with equal ease. In the paths of peace and prosperity it is man's helpful agent.

On the battle front gasoline is indispensable. While it is aviation would be only a dream, and the transportation of troops and munitions of war would be so hampered that activities would be paralyzed. The submarine could not operate without gasoline, nor the destroyer equal the speed which makes it superior to the undersea craft. The oil wells of the United States are furnishing the sinews of war as well as those of peace. Stop its production today and half the activities of the world, both industrial, agricultural and war would cease.

Indeed it is well to maintain the title of king for the leading product of the oil industry.

COUNT TOLSTOY'S VISION.

Certain utterances of Count Tolstoy made to Henry W. Nevins, the English liberal in 1905 when the people of Russia were wrestling their first parliament from the czar, seem as if spoken with the spirit of prophecy. He said:

"You are young and I am old. But as you grow older you will find, as I have found, that day follows day, and there does not seem much change in you, till suddenly you hear people speaking of you as an old man. It is the same with an age in history; day follows day, and there does not seem to be much change, till suddenly it is found out that the age is become old. It is finished; out of date.

"The present movement in Russia [1905] is not a riot; it is not even a revolution; it is the end of an age. And the age that is ending is the age of empires—the collection of smaller states under our large state. "There is no true community of heart or thought between Russia, Finland, Poland, the Caucasus and all our other states and races. Or what would have Hungary, Bohemia and Styria or the Tyrol to do with Austria? No more than Canada, Australia, India or Ireland have to do with England.

"People are now beginning to see the absurdity of these things, and in the end people are reasonable. That is why the age of empires is passing away."

In commenting on this prophetic utterance, which seems now not far from realization, Nevins recently said: "The whole argument, which ran on with a half-ironic simplicity of this kind, was magnificent, not so much for its daring as for its quiet confidence in human reason. I remembered how for the last twenty years all the brazen trumpets of vulgarly had been sounding the note of empire over us as the one great and stirring purpose of existence. And here was this little rugged old man calmly telling me, as tho it were something of a platitude, that we had just come to the end of an age—the age of empires."

Rippling Rhymes
By WALT MASON

Wilhelm's Pledge.
Bill said, on February first, when he turned loose his submarines, "Now, by the sacred liverwurst, I'll show the world that warfare means I'll show the world that German might is master of the land and seas; I'll end this most annoying fight, and bring peace to Britain's knees." And Germans took the kaiser's word; they said "He'll surely cut the grass; and a peach and he is a bird, and what he says will come to pass." They tightened up their belts a notch, convinced they'd cook the Allied goose, and grimly set themselves to watch old England begging for a truce. The weary months have rolled away, on every sea her vessels float, and England's mightier today than when the U-boats sought her goat. "Six weeks or so will do the trick," the kaiser told his hopeful dupes; "I'll make their ocean commerce sick, and Hindenburg will can their troops. I wonder what the Germans will say as they toll on with tightened belts while Haig and Neville knock the hay and other stuffing from their pelts. I wonder if they do not hike to battle filled with deadly rage; I wonder if they wouldn't like to put the kaiser in a cage."

REAC H AGREEMENT ON BASIS OF CO-OPERATION

NEW YORK, July 27.—After a conference here today between officials of the American Red Cross and the allied war charities, it was announced that an agreement had been reached on a basis of co-operation "subject to ratification of the war council of the Red Cross and the federal council of allied charities."

It was stated that the deadlock which has existed apparently will be bridged by the understanding tentatively reached.

"By the terms of today's agreement," a statement said, "the federal council of allied war charities would become permanent and would include practically all of the separate organizations for which it has been acting in the negotiation, in the committee on co-operation of Red Cross."

AGAINST FURTHER PEACE OVERTURES BY GERMANY

AMSTERDAM, July 27.—Dr. Carl Peters, the German explorer and publicist, in the Tagliche Rundschau, inveighs violently against further German peace overtures and asks:

The writer pleads for horse sense in dealing with the peace question saying:

"A horse dealer never shows anxiety to buy nor does he at once state the highest price he is prepared to pay. Let the other party make the next bid. Shall we fall in the biggest business deal in history which involves the future of our race?"

The Chicago & Alton took 212 excursionists to Chicago this morning and probabilities were that passengers on the 6:05 o'clock train would bring the total number to 250.

This has been one of the best patronized excursions of recent times. Since the recent raise in railroad fares, such excursion rates have been unusually popular and the number who go would indicate that the ventures pay as far as the railroads are concerned.

The last train upon which the cut-rate tickets are good will reach Jacksonville at 8:35 o'clock Monday evening.

RECORD-BREAKING CROP OF PEACHES
Trenton, N. J., July 27.—New Jersey peach growers entertain grave fears that a shortage of labor will be encountered when the gathering of the crop becomes general throughout the State next week. The crop is expected to break all records of previous years. A yield of at least 50 per cent larger than the output of 1916 is predicted by officials of the State Horticultural Society.

The growers admit they face a serious problem in getting a sufficient force to gather the crop, but they intend to exert every effort to keep the fruit from going to waste. In some of the fruit centers schools for peach pickers and packers have been opened, under the direction of State agricultural agents, because of the difficulty of getting expert Georgia packers.

Car shortage is another problem the growers are called upon to face this year. Because of the shortage of cars it is expected many growers will try out the scheme of sending their peaches direct to the New York, Philadelphia and other large city markets in large and powerful motor trucks.

VISITED SCENE OF OLD FAMILY HOME

Jacksonville Citizen After Sixty-eight Years' Absence Found Much of Interest in Town Where He Lived As a Child.

About the year 1846 or '47 a devoted home missionary, Rev. Warren Nichols, was called to the pastorate of the Congregational church at La Harpe, a small village in Hancock county and there he went with his wife, daughter and son. Failing health induced him to leave for a more easterly location and with a spring wagon drawn by three horses the family started occupying two weeks for the trip to Ohio. Among other features of the journey was 150 miles of corduroy roads, a highway made of small trees laid across the track and no dirt between so that the jolting may easily be imagined.

With a desire to see the place he left 68 years ago when a child five years old, the writer went there a few days ago with his wife for a short stay. He expected to find a good sized village, a cool, distant reception, no one who would remember the family and not much of a time anyway but in everything he was most happily surprised. La Harpe is a delightful little city of some 2,000 inhabitants, with water works, sewers, electric lights, pleasant and ornamental homes and a hotel, the Tremont House, which is a jewel. As the visitor left the train he remarked that he had left the place 68 years before when a pleasant voice behind him was heard saying to him:

"I would like an affidavit to that." The speaker proved to be James Coulson, editor and proprietor of the La Harpe a wide awake paper, a credit to the owner and the place. He guided the strangers to the hotel and invited them to call at his office after dinner which the writer did and was pleased to find a son of Deacon Maynard, the only surviving member of a family, the mainstay of the little church. Eagerly he inquired after different ones he could remember and a lively conversation followed. The early village was mainly built along a road which was then one of the main highways to the far west and well does the writer remember the long lines of ox teams drawing wagons of gold seekers to the Pacific coast.

"Didn't Mr. Bliss have a store about that spot?"

"That's the place though the family left long ago." "It was about the only store in the village then. My father used to give me eggs to induce me to learn my spelling lessons and in the stock were some oil cloth caps, shiny caps I used to call them, and I longed for one as eagerly as a king desired a crown. Finally I had accumulated enough eggs to secure the coveted prize and to this day I distinctly remember the men in the store, a dozen or so, coming out and watching me strut home with my treasure."

"The schoolhouse stood about there where now is that pleasant dwelling, I think. As we went to school my sister used to pull me away from the heels of the horses hitched in front of the store. Occasionally a band of roving Indians would pass by though none lived at all near. One day we wandered a little too far from the school house and started up a deer and once I came within a few inches of stepping on a large snake. The last thing before closing we used to stand up for the spelling lesson and I could almost repeat the pages in the old blue back Webster which I am old fashioned enough to think has hardly been improved on very much. In warm weather we used to place our toes on a crack in the floor and do our best. The teacher had a dime with a hole in it and a pink tape through it and the one who was head at the end of the lesson had to go to the foot and try to work up again and had the privilege of wearing home the coveted dime. My pride on such occasions was second only to that when I wore home the 'shiny cap'."

"Sidley Tuttle was superintendent of the Sunday school and Mr. Comstock was my teacher. Are they here yet?"

"All gone and the families too."

"Major visited Jacksonville to get treatment for cancer but found no relief and died years ago."

"Then I remember so well the old tavern where the California travelers who could afford it used to stay. It was kept by Mr. Gilman and one night it burned and I remember as well seeing Mrs. Gilman, a rather fleshy woman, next day at one of the neighbors. Are the Gilmans here yet?"

"No, they are all gone, too, but I think you are mistaken about the hotel burning then. Some have been burned though I was born two years after you left and am not certain. Two or three buildings have been burned in that locality, all hotels."

Guided by Mr. Maynard the visitors walked about the place and took much pleasure in seeing its well shaded streets, the large, well adorned park in the center which the writer remembers as prairie, and many other features of the place. The trees in the park are a trifle too thick but they are so handsome it would require lots of nerve to remove them.

Finally the visitors drew up in front of a pleasant residence, that of Mrs. Mary Barnes, probably the oldest residence of the place, almost ninety and yet with a mind as clear and vigorous as that of a young person and not even a sign of a wrinkle on her well rounded face with a color like that of one in the prime of life. There the visit was indeed most delightful. The dear old lady is tenderly cared for by a dutiful son and a lovely housekeeper and is spending the evening of her days most happily. When she learned who her visitors were she was indeed pleased. She said:

"Your father's house was just west of this one though it was long since replaced. I knew the family well and especially remember a donation party once given him. There was a large gathering and they had a kind of promenade which your parents headed in fine style. Your father and mother were well educated and cultivated and made a fine appearance."

"Please tell me, wasn't a hotel burned while we lived here?"

"Yes, it stood where is now the Tremont House and was kept by a man named Gilman. His wife was rather fleshy."

"I thought I was right regarding that. I remember them well. It was next kept by a man named Johnson who had three daughters, Agusta and two others."

"That was the kind woman who used to give me cookies while I was on my way to school."

"Wasn't Pontusac the place where there was a town, a river ferry and something of a place?"

"Yes, but it's not there now. Fort Madison, farther along is the river town today."

Mr. Maynard said they used to kill hogs in the winter, cure the meat and pile it up along the river bank waiting for spring to ship it and one could buy a bucket full of sausage meat for fifty cents.

It was indeed hard to leave such a delightful home but the housekeeper declared there was no danger of wearing Mrs. Barnes out as she loved to have company and was able to enjoy their calls and conversation any length of time but after talking an incessant stream for two hours the visitors left and went again before going from the place. They found Mrs. Barnes indeed a remarkable lady. Although not able to do much housework she cannot bear to be idle and so occupies her time in various ways. She has some evidences of her skill and industry which are simply astonishing. She has made for various persons eight slumber robes which are simply marvels of skill and taste while she has pieced a large quilt with scraps of velvet making an artistic piece of work beautiful and useful. A slumber robe called "biscuit work" is a wonder while wax flowers and flowers and plants wrought into a waxed wreath are a wonder. She has a museum which ought to have suitable quarters. She likes to collect things herself and everybody loves to bring her unique and curious articles for Gramma Barnes is beloved in that community and a list of the articles she has would be a long one.

The Congregational and Methodist-Protestant church have been wisely united and the writer had the pleasure of calling on the pastor, Mr. Yemm, a worthy son of Gloucestershire, England, and thoroughly American in his feelings. He is a very pleasant gentleman and thoroughly consecrated to his work. He has a charming wife and two lively children.

The only point on which Grandma Barnes and the writer differed was regarding a church building. It was her recollection that up to the time Rev. Warren Nichols left the Congregationalists worshiped in a school house but the visitor thought it was a church though of course he would not put his memory against hers.

The writer called at the beautiful home of John Campbell, brother of James Campbell, residing a few miles west of the mound, and of the late Clinton Campbell of this place. The gentleman wasn't home but the family were very cordial. A daughter is soon to be married and go to China as a missionary.

It was downright hard to say good bye to C. L. Young, landlord of the hotel, and to the other kind friends found in the place. Mr. Young said he felt almost like parting from some of his family, but pleasant things must have an end and the visit in La Harpe was no exception.

BELIEVES KITCHENER A PRISONER IN GERMANY

LONDON, July 27.—The statement by Mrs. Parker, sister of Lord Kitchener, that she believes her brother to be alive and did not go down with the Cruiser Hampshire, has revived a rumor which has recurred in England during the year past. Asked today on what grounds she based her belief, Mrs. Parker replied:

"I cannot tell you on what grounds I believe it. In fact I don't want to go into any details whatever."

The original rumor was that a letter had been received from a British prisoner in Germany saying that Lord Kitchener was a prisoner there. The letter was never traced and the rumor was considered a canard.

INCREASE INSURANCE RATES FOR VESSELS

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Another increase of one and one half per cent in government insurance rates for vessels and cargoes sailing from American ports for Europe and for African ports on the Mediterranean was announced today by the war risk insurance bureau. It will be effective August 15. The present rate is five per cent.

It is the first increase since the United States entered the war and was made necessary said the bureau's announcement because "the five per cent rate is not adequate for the risks undertaken by the so-called war zone, as the bureau has sustained a number of heavy losses."

BRITISH PREMIER BREAKFASTS EDITORS

Lloyd-George Discusses Fully the Military Situation and Answers Questions.

Paris, July 27.—David Lloyd George, the British premier, today gave a breakfast to editors of important French newspapers during which he discussed fully the military situation and replied to questions.

The Temps this afternoon gives a summary of his talk. Mr. Lloyd George said that Great Britain now had between 5,000,000 and 5,500,000 soldiers enrolled without counting between 400,000 to 500,000 belonging to the navy or nearly a million men from the dominions and colonies.

Great Britain had placed at the disposition of her allies, he added from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 tons of merchant ships. Next year's building program for merchant ships which already has begun, amounts to 4,000,000 tons. Alluding to the submarine campaign Mr. Lloyd George said:

"The diminution in shipping losses is incontestable. It is impossible to abandon the subject without paying homage to the aid given by the American navy both regarding the organization of convoys and by torpedo boat destroyers which have rendered an invaluable service."

Continuing Mr. Lloyd George said that 5,000,000 men and women now were engaged in war work in the United Kingdom.

Altho the English people sincerely hoped that the present war would be the last war, Mr. Lloyd George continued, the country intended to avoid its previous error and in the future be able to support itself. He said he recognized that the latest news from Russia was not good news but that Russia already had shown that she possessed infinite resources and was the land of the unexpected.

CHESTER MOB BEATS NEGRO INSENSIBLE

CHESTER, Pa., July 27.—Altho a force of nearly two hundred armed guards patrolled the city tonight, a mob of several thousand men and boys renewed race rioting and beat a negro insensitive before he could be rescued by the police. The authorities believed the situation was under control and were taken by surprise when the rioters first appeared in large numbers in the business section.

All negro residents had been ordered to remain indoors.

Tonight's outbreak was the fourth this week. Wagon loads of guards held ready for trouble were rushed to the scene of the disorder and dozens of men were knocked unconscious with riot sticks in clearing the streets.

MAY BE NO WORLD'S SERIES THIS YEAR

CHICAGO, July 27.—There is likely to be no world's series this year as a result of the drain on major league baseball players by the draft. B. B. Johnson, president of the American League said here tonight on his return from New York. He said that tabulation of draft numbers held by players showed that probably 25 men would be taken from the American League and that the American League would not play the series if it were handicapped by that serious loss.

The league president also stated that he had learned that the military drilling installed by the league early in the season would not cause the war department to extend exemptions to ball players until the end of the season. His information, Mr. Johnson declared, was that the ball players would be drafted to the colors about September 1.

CONTEMPLATE NO IMMEDIATE CHANGE

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Plans for tactical re-organization of the army are out advanced to the point where any immediate change in division now in the country is contemplated. It was stated officially today that the regulars, national guard and national army would move to their camps in "typical" infantry divisions as prescribed by law but which the president is authorized to vary as he sees fit.

Presumably a re-organization of General Pershing's forces in harmony with the smaller division plan now in vogue in European armies has already been effected. A typical infantry division of the American army makes a total force of about 28,000 men. The French use about 16,000 men to a division.

It is estimated more than 100,000 will be needed within the next few months to ship lumber and other supplies for army cantonments and ship yards.

Railroads have been ordered by the war board to forbid shippers the use of any cars ordered in advance by the government except for supplies specified in the order. To hasten government shipments cars bearing them will be marked "United States freight expedite" or with some similar notice.

ture financial burden. Some prominent senators insist that despite the secretary's figures at least $3,000,000,000 additional revenue must be found. Senator Simmons chairman of the committee said tonight he expected the war tax bill would be revised promptly to provide the $7,000,000,000 altho by far the greater part would be in bond authorizations. The latter many members believe must bear interest at four per cent instead of 2 1/2 per cent as in the case of the liberty loan. Increase of about $300,000,000 in the tax levy is expected to be made up largely of higher levies upon incomes, war excess profits and possibly tobacco.

LANG LEAVES FOR QUINCY.

Complaints were based on reports by Prof. Ira Baker, the efficiency expert of the improvement board. He charged that the city had been swindled out of $33,291 thru the experts, failing to detect skimming in paving contracts. The men are James Miles, chief examiner; F. H. Canfield, expert on system; F. J. Flanagan, W. J. Heckathorne and J. Lee Sears, all examiners on efficiency. Miles is now in Washington at the request of Herbert Hoover to assist him in organizing and perfecting the food control organization.

The council committee tonight voted its confidence in the experts and charged that the complaints were made for political purposes.

ARMY OFFICER TRIES TO GET HIMSELF DEMOTED

In conformity with usual practice he was relieved last winter and allowed to come home. When the newly completed San Francisco city and county hospital unit was being organized,

Dr. Chancellor wanted to go under direction of Dr. Joseph Cotton, the organizer but there was no room for a major on the staff. Hence his application for reduction to a captaincy.

GIVES VIVID PICTURE OF WAR IN TRENCHES

Col. Powers of British Army Told Chicago Audience Interesting Experiences and Observations—Internal Combustion Engine Great Feature of the Warfare.

At a recent meeting of the Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers in Chicago Col. E. T. Powers of the British army made an address which thrilled his auditors. Bernard Cause of this city was in attendance and it is from him that a summary of this very intense war picture was secured. Col. Powers spent almost three years with the army of the allies in France and was sent to his home last December because of injury. The address lasted more than two hours and some of the main thoughts are given below.

Early Stages of the War.
At the beginning of the war the Allies were handicapped by the 60 years of preparation that Germany had made for this war, this made the early engagements of the war decidedly in favor of the German army. Again the German had captured balloons approximately covering each mile of the battle fronts, this enabled them to observe every movement of the Allied Army. The allies were unprepared to meet the enemy's attacks for the reason that they were not familiar with the present method of warfare which the German Army used against them and the knowledge gained in learning their methods and the means to resist the same has been at the price of human life. Today the Allies have complete control of the air having driven the German airships from the front and the Germans are fighting as it were a blindfolded fight for the reason that they are unable to secure information in advance of the Allied movements and in this respect are in the position that the Allies were at the beginning of this conflict.

Gas Bombs.
These new features introduced in war and German bombs were painful in effect and the soldier who happened to breathe this gas died from suffocation in from a period of 8 hours of time and some as long as 8 days after, but they usually died after having breathed this gas. These bombs were fired as a range from three to five hundred yards distance. The Allies have secured a bomb that can be fired from a distance as far as three miles and its effect is instantaneous upon those who breathe the gas. This improvement has made the use of the German bomb to their disadvantage and is not used as much as it was at the beginning of the war.

Trenches.
The battle front consists of three lines of irregular shaped trenches paralleling each other and intercommunicating at certain points, the front line of trenches usually sustain the first shock of an attack or is comprised of the soldiers who make the assault upon the enemy.

The parapets in front of these trenches are built of sand bags and are of various heights, depending upon the nature of the country. A trench is built of different widths, anywhere from six to twelve feet and no special importance is attached to this dimension, the trenches are from thirty to forty feet in depth, this depth being necessary on account of the effect of the heavy shell fire. Soldiers in the first line usually occupy this position for a period of four days and then fall back to the second line of trenches or the first relief and remain there for a period of eight days after which time they fall back to the third line of trenches and constitute the reserve force for a period of two to three weeks of time after which they go to the "Rest Billet" where they secure baths and clean linen and enjoy themselves in various sports during their sojourn at that place which is always located well outside of the shelled district.

Rats in Trenches.
They apparently came from no place and have increased in numbers very rapidly. At first they were quite annoying but at the present not much attention is paid to them, as it has been found that no soldier was ever bitten by them and injured and for sanitary reasons it was thought best to not undertake their extermination.

Trench Fever.
Is a new sickness and its symptoms are first felt in the different joints of the legs and is attended by a temperature that reaches as high as 105 degrees. A patient suffers quite a good deal of inconvenience in trying to rest easy and the cause of the sickness is now shared as being due to a breaking down of the nervous system, no fatalities however.

Flags and Banners.
Are conspicuous by their absence and also the army tent. The soldier has been divested of every superfluous burden and he carries only those things which are absolutely necessary for the duties he is called upon to perform.

No burial of the dead is practiced to any extent today for the reason that in the shelled district and that comprises all of the territory surrounding the trenches for some distance back and in front of them, it has been the experience that those you bury today will be dug out by the heavy shells exploding afterwards. The first care is for those who are injured to take them back to the emergency hospital where simple first aid assistance is given them and care until such time as they can be transported to the base hospital. This emergency hospital is located well inside of the shelled district.

Effect of Shell Fire.
The Germans are using a 16 inch shell which can be fired over a distance of approximately twenty miles and when it strikes and explodes excavates a hole 25 feet in depth and from 100 to 200 feet in diameter, the heat from which is so intense that it will fuse the ends of rifle barrels. It has been the use of this shell that has wrought such havoc to the farming lands of the country. It is unnecessary to state that it annihilates every thing within its range.

Another gun and perhaps their most effective gun is of a 6 inch

THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME COW

W. W. Marple, a very entertaining speaker, a man with Chautauqua experience and with wide knowledge of the dairy field has been assured for an address at the Chautauqua since the program was printed. Mr. Marple has turned down offers for Chautauqua work and has been secured for our program by personal friends here. He is president of the Illinois Butter Manufacturers association. He is in great demand because he knows the dairy and the dairy business and because he is a speaker of unusual ability. His address will be interesting to all but, of course, will appeal more especially to dairymen and farmers.

caliber. It is fired over a shorter range but travels with great rapidity and is very destructive.

The 3 inch field gun however one is quite safe if he is not closer than 8 feet when it strikes. The large shells give ample warning of their coming as three distinct sounds are heard at as many different periods, first when leaving the gun, then its passage in the air and last when it strikes. The large guns today are not used as much as at the beginning of the war and the damage they do does not justify the use made of them at the beginning.

Temperament of the Private Soldier.
Is best described by most every officer's experience, after men have been at the "Rest Billet" and have become tired of the idleness or play at that place they frequently will make inquiries of the officers if their services proved unsatisfactory at the front and when they are again sent into the front line for reliefs and if it so happens that they overstay their time by a day, again they will complain, wanting to know if they are all that is left of the British Army or if the balance have expired, they become restless for activity.

Making a Drive.
Is perhaps the most hazardous undertaking human beings have ever been called upon to perform. The space in front of the trench reaching to the enemy's trenches are shelled without cessation for a period of time varying from a few hours to a month of time, each and every minute of the time enemy position is raked with shell fire that completely covers the ground and at a given time the command receives orders to go over the parapet and then crawl up to a certain point, then a Fire Barrage is sent on ahead of them which rolls on to the enemy's trenches driving them down and the final assault is made over the enemy's parapet, part of the command throwing bombs, using machine guns and rifle fire. All prisoners who surrender are sent back and they are employed in restoring the roads and building up the country so far as practical and receive the same treatment as do soldiers of their same rank in the British Army. Immediately after a drive has been made each soldier receives something to eat and is relieved as soon as possible by fresh troops.

The question has been asked how a soldier feels under such a condition and to answer this I believe that they are for the time being oblivious to every other thought or idea but this, to capture the enemy and the objective point for which they started, and their minds are a blank for all else.

The Prussian Soldier.
Is an autocrat and a bulldozer. He apparently does not have the sympathy of soldiers from other provinces of Germany, it has been his brutal tyranny that has been responsible for the outrages committed upon the defenseless women and children of Belgium and Northern France. One day there arose from the trenches opposite my command a sign held on a rifle that read as follows: "We are Saxons, you are Anglo-Saxons, save your bullets for the Prussians. We will tell when they are coming." Several days later another sign appeared over the top of the parapet which read as follows: "We will be relieved tonight by the Prussians. Give them Hell," and that evening we paid them a visit and took their trench and found that we had captured Prussians.

The Game of War.
Is now fought with little or no regard for the tactics of the past. A new lesson had to be learned and it may well be summed up that to day the tactics is to cut guess and fool the enemy.

War's greatest single agency is the "Internal Combustion Engine" propelling the aeroplane, automobile and the submarine. The aeroplane is the "eye" of an army, without its use success is impossible, rapid transportation of both men and supplies are absolutely essential and the fate of a nation may hinge upon its use.

Supplies.
It has been definitely determined that it requires 10 pounds of supplies per day per man at the front. This equal 300 pounds per month and if you maintain an army of one million men then you must be prepared to deliver them 300,000,000 pounds per month, but this is not all, it requires for each mile of trench nine miles of barbed wire, one and one quarter million feet of lumber, 120,000 pounds of corrugated galvanized iron, about 150,000 sand bags. There are other items but these constitute the items carrying the heaviest weight.

All superfluous agencies in the army have been to a great extent eliminated and nothing has been retained but what is useful and necessary, the engineering corps constitute the private soldier in the trench who digs his own trench and helps defend it, but another highly important force has been organized. Their patriotism and duties are just as essential to successful campaign of an army as the field they were actually present on the field of battle, these are the workers at home without the aid of which they can give no success. Without them the army must perish and with it your country and its opportunities.

The worker at home may not have the glorious opportunity to make a hero of himself and win the plaudits of the world but he is a hero just the same. His contribution of the products of his skill make possible your nation's security.
France of Today.
And I have marched with my command from Paris to the present battle fronts, you see no "woman" but who is in mourning and when I left last December you met no men but aged and crippled. The women of France and especially of Northern France have suffered immensely but they are bearing their suffering heroically, two and three plowing the soil and as we marched along it made no difference if we rested near a "chauteau" or a humble cottage these women always supplied us with hot coffee.

Armies of Today Compared.
It has taken the British Army just three years to learn how to fight the enemy and get prepared for him and today our men have the spirit of victory and the Germans that of defeat. We are fighting an offensive fight and they a defensive fight. In every department of the war we have defeated them. They are completely driven out of the air on the battle front, we are making better hits with our artillery and have proved to them that the war can't be won by the submarine.

America in the War.
Has undoubtedly inspired a new hope in France and they are again fighting a wonderful fight along the front they are holding. Your participation in the war will undoubtedly make strong friendships for your country, especially with the Canadian people and while I am not prepared to talk about the politics of any country I do believe that every nation looks to you to maintain Democratic institutions.

COLLEGE EDUCATION FOR NEGROES URGED

Dr. Jones of U. S. Bureau of Education Suggests Co-Operation in Development of a Few Institutions of College and University Grade

Adequate college and university education for colored people is urged by Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones of the United States Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, in the two-volume report on Negro Education just issued by the Department.

"If college education is of value to any group, surely it is to those who are to be the leaders of the colored people. Only a broad-minded leadership with a thorough grasp of human development can understand the peculiar difficulties resulting from the close proximity of such widely varying races as the black and the white people of the Southern States.

"The race must have physicians of real skill and the spirit of service to lead against the insanitary conditions that are not only threatening the group itself but also its white neighbors. It must have religious teachers who can relate religion to the morals of the individual and to the common activities of the community. It must have teachers of secondary schools who have had a college education in the great modern sciences and in the historical development of civilization."

Are Poorly Equipped.
Dr. Jones points out that despite high ideals and notable enthusiasms on the part of the race and its benefactors, most of the colored institutions calling themselves colleges are poorly equipped and ineffective—poorly organized and administered. Only a few institutions at present have the student body, equipment, teaching force of a genuine college, but a number of institutions do some work of college grade. The location of two or more colleges for negroes in Selma, Ala.; Little Rock, Ark.; Atlanta, Ga.; New Orleans, La.; Holly Springs and Jackson, Miss.; Greensboro, N. C.; Columbia and Orangeburg, S. C.; Nashville, Tenn.; Austin, Marshall and Waco, Tex., indicates a wasteful duplication of collegiate effort.

Any plan for further development of college and university education for negroes should, according to Dr. Jones, take into consideration income, plant, teaching force, and present location of schools offering more or less college work. "Every institution should realize that success and honor and human service are not necessarily attained thru a college department or even thru an industrial or agricultural plant."

The Bureau's report suggests that all agencies interested in negro education co-operate in the development of a few institutions of university and college grade. There seems to be general agreement that Howard University at Washington, and Fisk University at Nashville, Tenn., are the most promising institutions for development as universities. It is suggested that first-class colleges be located at Richmond, Va., Atlanta, Ga., and Marshall, Texas.

Must Include Teacher Training.
Still another group of institutions should be developed into junior colleges doing two years of college work. A number of institutions are already offering courses of this grade but they are all in need of more equipment and larger income. These institutions, Dr. Jones points out, should make generous provision for teacher-training courses, both in their secondary and college classes.

"The education of negroes in America undoubtedly requires institutions that are genuinely of college grade," says Dr. Jones. "The first step in the realization of this need is the agreement that all shall combine in an effort to develop a few well-selected institutions. The second requirement is the determination on the part of the institutions that every college activity shall be adapted to the demands of modern society."

ROBERT J. SHAW

Mr. Shaw is a graduate of the University of Iowa and while there was a leader in oratory and an officer of several oratorical societies. A part of last year he was with the American Ambulance Corps in France and part of that time was with the French army which defended Verdun.

In his address he refers to life at the front, to the hospital service, aviation, prison camps, the Red Cross, the Army Y. M. C. A. and the morale of the French and British soldiers and will exhibit his French helmet, a gas mask, shell casings, sabres and other interesting objects.

Mr. Shaw has the faculty of telling what he knows in an interesting manner, his addresses are wonderfully instructive and while he does not present a horrifying picture he does not unnecessarily minimize the terrible price which is being paid in blood and money.

MANY QUESTIONS FOR EXEMPTION BOARD

Master Draft List is Expected today—Remembering Work Then Must Be Done

The Morgan county board of exemption is busy now answering queries. President Miller Weir said yesterday that there are many visitors to the office and the inquiries refer particularly to the coming examination and to exemption matters. Mr. Weir commented upon the fact that a good spirit is being shown and in every instance thus far the prospective soldiers or their relatives who have visited the exemption office, have expressed a willingness to enter the army service if the need exists.

The "master draft list" issued by the war department at Washington has not yet been received by the board but a copy is expected today. This list includes instructions as to arrangement of cards to conform to the department's plans. The master list, a copy of which has been received at the Journal office, shows that very few errors were made in the original list as published. These errors are remarkably few considering the possibilities for errors in transmitting such an enormous number of figures.

The rules accompanying the master list give full particulars as to the handling of registration cards which have been erroneously or illegally serially numbered, or on which erasures or blurring has caused confusion. In preparing the list to conform to the government regulations the local board of exemption is instructed as follows: "Draw a light pencil line thru every number which does not at the present time appear on any registration card in the possession of your local board. The list as thus prepared is now within your possession. Each person shall be called in the order in which the 'serial number' on his registration card appears on the list. If additional registration cards are received, or registration cards which have been wrongly serially numbered and are assigned 'serial numbers' by the adjutant general of the state as provided in the rules and regulations, your list will be changed accordingly, so as to include in their exact order such additional 'serial numbers' as fixed in this schedule."

Many men are laying in a year's supply of shirts from FRANK BYRNS' Hat Store. The values will not be duplicated.

PLAY SPRINGFIELD TODAY

The local United Commercial Travelers baseball team will play the Springfield U. C. T. team in Springfield this afternoon. The trip to Springfield, weather permitting, will be made by automobile. Manager Lavery says that the team will be made up strictly of bonafide members of the local council and he expects the Springfield team to play only members of the order. If this is done Mr. Lavery expects to return home with the bacon. The Jacksonville lineup follows: Kennedy Catcher, Woodman pitcher, Lavery first base, Van Valzah short stop, Mann second base, Schilling third base, Cain left field, Coe center field, Cannon right field.

RETURNS FROM NORTHERN TRIP

William Newman returned recently from Minot, North Dakota, where he went with Mrs. Newman and their daughters several weeks ago. Newman is in business there and has been for several years in charge of a Woolworth store. Minot is located in the center of a productive wheat country which is very prosperous just now altho the outlook for this year's crop is not as favorable as was true some weeks ago. The customary amount of rain has not fallen and crop prospects have been interfered with to some extent for that reason. Minot, like some other of the larger cities in the northern and western states, has very fine public buildings, of a class seen in much larger cities in the older states.

LARGE WHEAT YIELD

George Newman of the Pisgah neighborhood was one of the successful Morgan Co. farmers in getting a large yield of wheat. Mr. Newman recently threshed his wheat and it averaged 54 bushels to the acre, with a total yield of 1,500 bushels. He sold it to the Pisgah Farmers Grain company for $2.25 per bushel.

HOWARD ZAHN BEGINS 1918 BUICK SALE

Sold Seventy Five Cars During the Past Year—Demand Limited Only by Supply—125 Reserved for Coming Year—A Great Garage.

Howard Zahn, Buick dealer with almost a state wide reputation for his success in the automobile business, sold 75 cars in 1917. Mr. Zahn had contracted for 25 more cars and could easily have sold them but factory conditions and the shortage of railroad cars made it impossible for him to get the full number.

Mr. Zahn's automobile year begins August 1 and he has contracted with the Buick factory for 125 cars. One shipment of three of these 1918 models was received the past week and Buick No. 1, a truck, was sold to Brady Bros. and is already in service. This is the first year that Mr. Zahn has been able to offer trucks and so it is natural to expect an increase of his already large business.

An addition to the Buick garage costing about $12,000 is now almost completed. The great floor space in the garage is thus materially augmented and Mr. Zahn now has a garage capacity equalled in few cities in Illinois. Buick sales are of frequent occurrence at the Zahn garage as the records show, and cars of this make are owned in all parts of Morgan county. Selling Buicks might well be called a pleasure as well as business for a Buick owner is always so well satisfied that he becomes a Buick booster. Thus every car sold is an advertisement and an endorsement. A visit to the Buick garage is worth while whether or not you are a prospective buyer, and if you intend to buy an inspection of the Buick is just a matter of self-interest and protection.

RECALLS EARLY DAYS IN COUNTY'S HISTORY

George L. Thorpe Writes Interesting Letter from Louisville, Ill.—Lived on Adam Allison Farm in Morgan County Years Ago.

Mr. Ensley Moore has received the following communication from Geo. L. Thorpe of Louisville, Ill., formerly a resident of Morgan county. Mr. Thorpe comments upon some of the articles written by Mr. Moore and published in the Journal, and gives some interesting facts concerning the early history of the county. The letter follows:

Louisville, Ill.
 7-26-17.

Hon. Ensley Moore:
 Dear Sir: Some of your articles published in The Journal are deeply interesting to me, so much so that I wrote one letter to you about the old Barnes home as I was of the last family to live in it. I am a minister of the Christian church.

About 3 months ago you had an article in which you mentioned Dry Creek Calif. Again I can respond for I lived there for four years, and know the creek from one end to the other; also Russian river into which Dry creek empties, that article greatly interested me. Now in this week's issue you write about the Adam Allison house and farm. I lived on the farm for about four years, knew both Adam Allison, Sr., and Junior. The first court ever held in Morgan county was held there. It was held under some trees about one-fourth of a mile north of the house, on the west side of the present road. The road originally was west of it, and ran east and west on the north side of Allison's house. That is why the house faces north with its pillars instead of east where the present road is. I have been familiar with Allison's house and farm for over forty years. I have a sample of wheat fifty-three years old from the barn that was burned there during the Civil war. The present house was largely built by Charles Scholly. The older part of the house was moved down the hill about 25 years ago, and I helped to move it. While the men were having a hard time to start it off the foundation uncle Billy Rutledge came on a call; seeing our hard exertions he took off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and worked hard and sweat thoroughly in true pioneer style. I'll never forget the large muscular man that uncle Billy was, and his taking part unexpectedly at house moving.

I remember John Lee and Mr. Purdy, two old men that used to live at Allison's. When the mill race was being made the men lived on Deer meat, the timber being full of deer.

Mr. Allison, Sr., is thought to have bought the first reaper drawn by horses in the county. It had no reel and when the grain was cut it would fall in any direction. They tried this with more speed, but to no avail; finally ran the machine in a fence corner as no good, completing the harvest with a cradle in the usual way.

These items are fraternally offered.

THE ARMY Y. M. C. A. WORK.

Bulletin No. 5 issued by the Y. M. C. A., giving Illinois army and navy news, tells something about the cantonment at Rockford, where seven Y. M. C. A. buildings are in course of construction. Ralph I. Dunlap, who recently visited Ft. Sheridan, asked particularly about the opinion of the men with reference to the army Y. M. C. A. work and in every instance the men expressed their great admiration for the work which is being done. They said that no man outside the camp could realize how much of pleasure, comfort and entertainment the Y. M. C. A. department is furnishing. The seven buildings in course of erection will cost about $4,500. They will be floored and ceiled and thus fixed in a comfortable way for the winter months. As Rev. Frank Crain recently said, "The work of the army Y. M. C. A. is certainly real religion, for it is real service to humanity."

FIGHT FOR YOUR LIFE

 Fight to get it and keep it

FIGHT FOR YOUR LIFE

Duty Demands Robust Health
 Fight to get it and keep it

Fight—fight day in and day out to prevent being overtaken by illness. Keep wrinkles from marring the cheek and the body from losing its youthful appearance and buoyancy. Fight when ill-health is coming with its pallor and pains, defects and declining powers. Fight to stay its course and drive it off.

But fight intelligently. Don't fight without weapons that can win the day for without the intelligent use of effective weapons the pallor spreads and weakness grows and a seemingly strong man or woman oftentimes becomes a prey to illness after all.

You will not find this class of persons in the hypoferrin ranks. No unhealthy, dull, drabby, drooping persons in that line. It is a hale, hearty, robust aggregation of quick-steppers who view life in a joyous frame of mind and are mentally and physically equal to any emergency. Hypoferrin stands for sound body and sound mind—it is the invigorating tonic of the times—powerful and unsurpassed as a health restorer, vitalizer and health preserver. Fight to hold the vigor of a sound body with hypoferrin or to stay the process of decay and restore health and strength—you win. This tonic of amazing, wonder-working properties has been approved by physicians as a restorer and safeguard of health. It is a thoroughly scientific preparation of the very elements necessary to tone up the stomach and nerves, to build strong, vital tissue, make pure blood, firm flesh and solid, active, tireless muscles.

Hypoferrin contains those mighty strength-producing agents, lecithin and iron peptonate, in a form best adapted to benefit the body and its organs. Its ingredients are absolutely necessary to the blood. In nine cases out of ten a run-down condition, sallow, pale complexion, that "all in" feeling and frail bodies are due to lack of lecithin and iron peptonate in the system.

Your mental and physical strength and endurance depends upon a lecithin-and-iron peptonate laden blood; steady, dependable nerves and a healthy stomach. With these you can meet life at any angle.

This wonder tonic, hypoferrin, which is as perfect as science can get to nature, meets every essential demand of the human organism. It is safe and sure and abounds in run-down, worn-out men and women. Hypoferrin means nature's own way of bringing color to the cheeks, strength to the body and keeping the vigor and buoyancy of youth. The powder and painless way of affecting beauty is not needed by hypoferrin women and girls. Their blood, filled with nature's beauty store, creates conditions that give firmness and grace to the body and the glow of health to the cheeks.

No need of going through life sickly and always feeling miserable in this age of medical science. Join the hypoferrin ranks. It puts into you the springy snap and vigor you ought to have and puts life into your body and mind that inspires the confidence that you confront the world on an equal footing with anyone.

DIFFICULT DAYS AWAIT U. S. ARMY IN FRANCE

Must Learn to Take German Frightfulness with Calm Endurance and Return it with Ever Increasing Measure—German Inventions Now Used By Allies.

British Headquarters in France, July.—(Staff Correspondence of The Associated Press.) The arrival of the first contingent of the American army in France serve to recall the fact that the United States is entering a war already old and wise—wise with the dearly bought wisdom of three long adventurous years—and steeped in all the diabolical wickedness that incessant delving into the deviltries of destruction can bring to it.

Having escaped the first terrors of weapons which German science had developed through tolling years of military preparation, the American divisions will nevertheless plunge eventually into a seething cauldron which has grown from the unavoidable policy of "fighting the devil with fire". They will have quickly to learn not only to take the awful German frightfulness with calm endurance, but to return it with an ever increasing measure. In doing this many nerve-testing and soul-searching experiences undoubtedly lie before them, but there are already thousands of young Americans in the Canadian and British ranks who have proved themselves traditionally worthy in the scorching flames of modern war.

The American forces are fortunate indeed to be able to base their education upon the bitter lessons learned by the French and British soldiers in all the eventful days that have followed that first rush of battle in 1914. Marvellously complete books of instruction have been built up on those experiences and out of these the American soldiers will glean the last word knowledge that will fit them for the foremost trenches.

A Baptism of Fire.

First of all, when they take their place, will come the baptism of fire from the noisy black high-explosive German shells that scream in from afar and burst with terrifying ports—sometimes in most unexpected places. The Germans are great believers both in noise and high-explosive. They even mix their adored "H-E" with their shrapnel shells which break high in the air and send their bullets showering down with the whine of an angry winter wind. The Americans soon will learn to distinguish the individual songs of the various shells for there is not the slightest doubt that the moment he discovers they are in the "line," the German will turn every available calibre of weapon against them in a flourish of introductory "hate." They will come over in order—their shrieking, grumbling missiles—ranging in size and noise all the way from the nasty little pip-squeaks or whizzbangs, up through the four-point-tos, the five-point-nines and then on to what the British Tommies laconically call "the big stuff"—the eight and eleven-inch howitzer shells and the projectiles from heavy caliber long range naval guns, known without affection as "Whistling Percys".

There will be little opportunity to hear a "Big Bertha", for those famous old 42-centimeter howitzers are seldom used nowadays. It is believed that the Germans planned to bombard Arras with them, using prussic acid shells, but the British advance on Easter Monday last put a stop to that particularly nefarious scheme against the already sadly battered little Arois cathedral city.

There is also awaiting the new American army a bounteous baptism of bombs and hand grenades and the still more dismaying introduction to the ghastly rattle of the machine-gun and its sinister swish of spraying bullets—sounds well calculated to stab with a moment of fear the heart of the bravest man.

Must Endure Poisonous Gases.

But above all the American soldiers must equip themselves to endure against the gas that will be sent over against them in poisonous, vaporish clouds, or showered upon them in a deluge of heavily charged cylinders and shells. They must prepare to deal also with the treacherous lachrymatory gas which while not dangerous to life irritates the teardrops until one cries with blindness, smarting eyes for hours. The surprise of both these gases is their altogether pleasant smell, the lethal variety suggesting the clean odor of a sanitary hospital ward, while the so-called tear gas has the appetizing scent of crushed ripe apples, or cider.

There is also the reason-shaking terror of the "flamewerfer", with its roaring stream of liquid fire flaring with the velocity of a high pressure fire nozzle and with an offpouring smoke rising like a black cypres cloud to the heavens.

The first day of their stay in battle trenches the Americans will make the acquaintance of a very old, but scarcely cherished, friend of the Tommies and Poilus—another member of the Werfer family known as "Minnie". This is the German mine thrower or minenwerfer, which flings over at short range great heavy projectiles known as "flying pigs" because of their wabbly, ungainly flight. They go off with a deafening roar, expending more energy on noise, however, than on material damage.

Resources are Failing.

A notable development of the war has been the dread with which the Germans have seen weapons of their own invention turned against them, and turned with a steadily increasing intensity. Their prisoners speak of the terror these weapons have caused and declare the German higher command is realizing all too late the Frankenstein it brought into being. While the Entente Allies are multiplying these terrors on the lines laid down by Emperor William himself, the Germans, isolated so long from the world, find their resources and materials constantly failing both as to means of carrying on this style of warfare and, what is more important to them, combatting the retributive measures undertaken by British and French.

Asphyxiating gas may be taken as a striking example. The whole world was shocked when Germany first released these poison clouds during their second attack on Ypres when the Allies, little suspecting such a weapon, had no protection whatever against it. The horror of those days when men engulfed by the lethal waves died agonizing deaths will never be forgotten. But the manner in which the Canadian troops rallied and prevented the Germans breaking through in what they hoped would be a victorious march to Calais and Boulogne, will ever be one of the most thrilling stories of the world war. Nowadays the British fairly bathe the Germans in every form of gas whenever the slightest opportunity offers and prisoners all say their losses in these attacks have been alarmingly heavy. Gas is sent over in creeping banks of fog, is shot over in bombs that suddenly explode in trenches and at entrances to dug-outs, while no billets or sleeping quarters for troops in rest miles back of the fighting line are safe from the gas shells which are ever knocking at their doors.

Gas Masks Are Inferior.

The bitterness of it all to the Germans, however, is the fact that daily they find they have less and less rubber with which to construct their gas masks, many of which are very inferior and offer but poor protection to the fighting men against gases that constantly are becoming more powerful.

Boiling and blazing oil drums which they find exploding about them in scalding and incendiary fury, heavy shells which break over them spouting streams of melted lead, are other species of the dread chickens of frightfulness that are daily flying home to the German roost.

It is small wonder that half-finished letters found on Germans in the front lines dwell upon the terror of the war, or that some go so far as to speak a desperate envy of the dead.

U. S. PREPARES AGAINST INVASION OF DISEASE

Campaign of Fortification Extended Over Period of Years—Public Health Service Has Jurisdiction Over all Quarantine Stations Except Two.

Washington, D. C., July 27.—As a result of untiring efforts extending over a period of several years the United States Public Health Service has, with only two breaches in its fortifications, completed its wall against invasion of diseases from Europe as an anticipated aftermath of the present war. New York and Baltimore are the only considerable ports of the United States maintaining local and separate quarantine stations over which the Federal government has no jurisdiction or where it has no independent service.

The Public Health Service is anticipating great influx of immigration, tainted with the diseases that are common to many of the concentration camps in the European war zone. With the coming of peace it is expected that the United States will be the mecca to which hundreds of thousands will turn their eyes as the promised land for the re-establishment of their fortunes or the making of careers. To make a living in Europe for some years, it seems certain, will not offer good prospects to the worker.

Cholera and typhoid are two forms of disease that are feared as a possible menace to the United States with the influx of post-war immigration. Both diseases have been making havoc with the men in the ranks of many of the continental armies, among their prisoners even more virulently, and among those natives of enemy countries who are concentrated in camps or special assembly places.

The danger to the United States is well recognized by the Public Health Service, and it is preparing against the inevitable. The desire to obtain jurisdiction over all the quarantine stations of the United States was part of the campaign of preparedness Boston and Galveston, two of the most important of these stations, were taken over a year ago. But New York, the biggest port of immigration, still remains aloof, with Baltimore, through which comes a considerable number of aliens.

St. Louis, July.—Eighteen years after his first connection with the St. Louis Nationals, Bobby Wallace the veteran infielder, is again a member of the club as a utility player.

Branch Rickey, president of the Cardinals, believes that Wallace will be a valuable asset. Wallace recently played in the Western league and his throwing and fielding is as speedy as ever. It is probable that he will attempt to teach Hornsby some of the finer tricks about playing shortstop. Wallace, in his prime, was regarded as one of the greatest fielding shortstops in the game. He is past forty years old.

St. Paul, July.—Johnny Ertie, the St. Paul bantamweight, and Roy Moore, have been matched to box ten rounds here the right of July 30. The contest will be staged in Lexington Park the home of the St. Paul baseball club.

A scarcity of base hits and winning tallies take their places alongside the shortage of beans in Boston. Mike Gzanale, the Havana backstop of the Cardinals, is showing the regular article for the Huggins outfit.

Walter Rehg, who has been in and out of the big show several times, has become a member of the Stallings rescue league.

Even the Brooklyn fans have forgotten that the Robins won the pennant last season.

No matter where the Reds finish, Cincinnati will still love the Mattys for trimming the Giants twice in one afternoon.

Word from Cleveland still clings to the belief that the Yankees will steal the American league pennant. They talk fluently after leading a big league outfit for a year or two.

One Hundred Years Ago.

National league directors met in New York to decide the fate of John McGraw. This celebrated case is still undecided. John contending that he doesn't believe in fate.

Big league pastime is all sunshine for some performers, while with others—well, there's Bobby Wallace for instance. After many attempts to flee St. Louis, Bob has been captured by the Mound City again, this time by the Cardinals.

Johnny Evers says he is to be a free agent at the close of the present season. As a slaving pastime John cops only a trifle over 700 bucks on the 1st and 15th, so who can blame him for wanting his freedom.

REGISTRATION PLANS FOR HAWAII

Honolulu July 26.—Brig. Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, provost marshal general in charge of registration and selective draft, has set next Tuesday as the day for registration in Hawaii. The enforcement of the registration law throughout the territory will be taken care of by the United States attorney and marshal acting under instructions from the Attorney-General's office in Washington. The central board in Honolulu will supervise the work all over the islands. Consuls of the various nationalities are helping in making translations.

FARMERS TO DISCUSS MARKETING AND CREDIT

Raleigh, N. C., July 26.—Special emphasis will be given this year to marketing and credit at the North Carolina State Farmers' Convention which will be held at the State College of Agriculture here next month. The methods of organizing and operating national farm loan associations will be discussed by several prominent bankers.

Another leading subject of discussion will be the present system of grading cotton for the farmers of the different counties of North Carolina. This system which has been in operation in a number of counties of the state, has saved farmers thousands of dollars and the state department of agriculture is making every effort to get all the farmers to realize the importance of providing for a grader. The advantage and possibility of farmers organizing associations for marketing cotton will also be considered.

Minneapolis, Minn. July.—Johnny Tilland, a Minneapolis welterweight is teaching boxing to the student officers attending the training camp at Fort Snelling. Tilland volunteered his services and expects to devote one night each week, dealing out left hooks and uppercuts to the embryo officers.

Miss Orpha J. Moss of Chicago, traveling passenger agent for the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, is the only woman in the United States employed in such a capacity.
